

We're going paperless

Your first aid certificates are now delivered digitally — better for you, and better for the planet.

As part of our commitment to being a more sustainable business, we're moving to fully digital certificates. From now on, every certificate we issue will be sent to you by email rather than printed and posted — arriving faster, and impossible to lose.

Straight to your inbox

Your certificate arrives as a PDF shortly after your course — usually well before a posted copy would reach you.

Kinder to the planet

Going digital cuts the paper, packaging and transport that printing and posting rely on, lowering our environmental impact.

Always to hand

Easy to save, back up and share with an employer or awarding body. Misplaced it? We'll simply resend it.

Your digital certificate is all you need

A digital certificate is valid and recognised in exactly the same way as a printed one. You do not need a paper copy for any qualification — the digital version is sufficient on its own.

If you'd like a physical copy for your own records, you're very welcome to print it yourself.

Is there anything you need to do? Nothing at all. Just keep an eye on your inbox after your course and save the PDF somewhere safe. Need it resent, or sent to a different address? Get in touch and we'll sort it straight away.

Thank you for helping us make this positive change. Any questions about digital certificates? Contact us at hello@tigerlilytraining.co.uk or visit www.tigerlilytraining.co.uk — we're always happy to help.

With thanks,

The Tigerlily First Aid Training Team
